Art Unit: 1653

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 27-34 and 44, drawn to isolated nucleic acid molecules encoding Cardiovascular System Associated kinases (CSAPK), vectors and host cells comprising said products and methods of expressing said products, classified in class 435, subclass 194.
- II. Claims 35-37, drawn to said kinases, classified in class 435, subclass 194.
- III. Claims 38-41, drawn to antibodies which bind said kinases and methods of use of said antibodies, classified in class 435, subclass 7.1.
- IV. Claims 42-43, drawn to methods of detecting the presence of said nucleic acids in a hybridization assay, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
- V. Claims 45-46, 1`8, drawn to methods of screening or modulators of said kinases, classified in class 435, subclass 15.
- VI. Claim 46, drawn to methods of modulating the activity of said kinases, classified in class 435, subclass 15.

In addition to inventions listed as Group I-VI above, each invention is independently directed to the following patentably distinct inventions of unrelated chemical structure and function:

- (a) SEQ ID NO:2 (or DNA encoding it)
- (b) SEQ ID NO:5 (or DNA encoding it)
- (c) SEQ ID NO:8 (or DNA encoding it)
- (d) SEQ ID NO:11, (or DNA encoding it)
- (e) SEQ ID NO:14 (or DNA encoding it).

Applicant is advised to elect one invention from groups I-VI and one invention from Groups (a)-(e) in response to this office action.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

The DNA of Group I, the kinases of Group II, and the antibodies of Group II are patentably distinct each from the other because each product has an unrelated chemical structure and function.

Inventions I and IV are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the DNA of Group I may be used for recombinant expression of said kinases which is a totally different method than that of Group IV.

The DNA of Group I and the antibodies of Group III are each unrelated to any of the methods of Groups V and VI because said products are their made not sued by any of said methods.

The antibodies of Group II and the polypeptides of Group II are each unrelated to the those of Group IV because said product is neither made nor used by said method.

Inventions II and V (or VI) are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the polypeptides of Group II may be used in an antibody preparation method which is a totally different method than any of those of Groups V and VI.

The methods of groups IV, V and VI are patentably distinct each from the other because each method has different steps and different end-points.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and a product claim is subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be rejoined in accordance with the provision of MPEP section 821.04. Process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the patentable product will be entered as a matter of right if the amendment is presented prior to final rejection or allowance, whichever is earlier. Amendments submitted after allowance are governed by 37 CFR 1.312.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all the criteria for patentability including the requirement of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until an allowed product claim is found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined, See "Guidance on Treatment of Product and Process Claims in light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 35 U.S.C. section 103(b)," 1184 O.G. 86(March 26, 1996). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, Applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution either to maintain dependency on the product claims or to otherwise include limitations of the product claim. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder.

Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP section 804.01.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
